

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Karl Brandt is professor emeritus of economic policy at Stanford University and retired director of the Food Research Institute.

James J. Lynch is professor of English at the State University College at Brockport, New York.

Donald Davidson is professor emeritus of English at Vanderbilt University.

Spencer MacCallum is with the Department of Anthropology at the University of Chicago.

Edward Wasiolek is professor of Slavic studies at the University of Chicago.

Simon Fleet is a regular contributor to the Sunday Observer and lives in London, England.

Marie Chay is the author of Pilgrims Pride; her work has appeared previously in Modern Age.

The book reviews are contributed by: Klaus Epstein, professor of history at Brown University; J. M. Lalley, associate editor of MODERN AGE; H. Tichovskis, professor in the foreign language department, University of Connecticut; C. P. Ives, co-editor of the Burke Newsletter; Stephen J. Tonsor, professor of history at the University of Michigan; Gary Wills, professor of classics at Johns Hopkins University; Edward Wasiolek, professor of Slavic studies, University of Chicago; Donald Davidson, professor emeritus of English, Vanderbilt University; Kurt Glaser, professor of government, Southern Illinois University; John Fairbanks Lynen, professor of English at the University of Illinois and author of The Pastoral Art of Robert Frost; John T. McCutcheon, Jr., of the editorial staff of the Chicago Tribune.