

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

John P. East, professor of political science at East Carolina University, is a member of the editorial advisory boards of The Political Science Reviewer and Modern Age. He recently published an article on "The Political Thought of Willmoore Kendall" in The Political Science Reviewer.

Eliseo Vivas, professor of philosophy emeritus at Northwestern University, has published numerous books and articles on moral philosophy and aesthetics; his latest work is Contra Marcuse.

Donald Atwell Zoll, professor of political science at Arizona State University, is the author of Reason and Rebellion; The Twentieth Century Mind; The American Political Condition and Twentieth Century Political Philosophy.

M. E. Bradford, chairman of the English department at the University of Dallas, is the author of Rumors of Mortality: An Introduction to Allen Tate and The Form Discovered: Essays on the Achievement of Andrew Lythe.

Raymond Thorberg, professor of English at the University of Maryland, has contributed to various critical or scholarly journals including Twentieth Century Literature, Southern Humanities Review, and Comparative Literature.

D. W. Sterner is a doctoral candidate in American history at Rutgers University; he is currently at work on a dissertation study of the thought of Henry James and George Santayana.

Arnold Krammer, professor of history at Texas A & M University, is the author of Forgotten Friendship: Israel and the Soviet Bloc, 1947-1953, as well as numerous articles in the fields of Russian and German history.

Felix Morley, now living in retirement on Gibson Island, Maryland, was formerly editor of The Washington Post and later president of Haverford College.

The book reviews are contributed by: J. M. Lalley, associate editor of Modern Age; Kurt Glaser, professor of political science, Southern Illinois University; C. P. Ives, associate editor of Studies in Burke and his Time; George A. Panichas, professor of English, University of Maryland, who has been elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts of the United Kingdom; Haven Bradford Gow, a writer whose articles have appeared in The Intercollegiate Review and other publications; Hugh Mercer Curtler, professor of philosophy, Southwest Minnesota State College; Brenton H. Smith, professor of history, Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; G. Paul Holman, Jr., acting director of the Russian area studies program at Georgetown University; Felix Morley, now living in retirement on Gibson Island, Maryland.