

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Henry Regnery is the founder and chairman of the board of the Henry Regnery Company, Publishers.

George H. Nash received his Ph.D. in history from Harvard University in 1973 and has published articles in National Review, The Alternative, Labor History, and other periodicals. He is currently working on an extended study of modern American conservatism, which will be published by Basic Books this fall.

Stephen J. Tonsor is professor of European intellectual history at the University of Michigan. He has published widely in both scholarly and popular journals.

Leo R. Ward is professor emeritus of philosophy at Notre Dame University and the author of many works on social philosophy and literature.

James V. Schall, a Jesuit priest and professor of government at the University of San Francisco, is presently teaching at the Gregoriana University in Rome. He is the author of Redeeming the Time, Human Dignity and Human Numbers, and Play On: From Games to Celebrations.

James E. Dornan, Jr. is chairman of the department of politics at Catholic University of America. His articles have appeared in National Review, Intercollegiate Review, and The Occasional Review. His lengthy monograph on the military balance in the post-SALT era, entitled Detente and the Impending Strategic Crisis has been published recently by the ACU Education and Research Foundation.

Peter C. Hughes is a Ph.D. candidate in the department of politics at Catholic University of America and also serves on the staff of Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Thomas J. Noer is professor of history at Carthage College. His articles and book reviews have appeared in The South Atlantic Quarterly, Newsletter, The Historian, and the Wisconsin Magazine of History.

Marion Montgomery, professor of English at the University of Georgia, has published novels, collections of poems and critical books. His latest are Fugitive and The Reflective Journey toward Order: Essays on Dante, Wordsworth, Elliot, and Others.

The book reviews are contributed by: J. M. Lalley, associate editor of Modern Age; Allen T. Blount, retired colonel of the Army Engineers' Corps, who has made an extensive study of African affairs; Felix Morley, formerly editor of the Washington Post, now living in retirement in Gibson Island, Md.; G. Paul Holman, Jr., acting director of the Russian area studies program at Georgetown University; Thomas H. Etzold, professor of history at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; Martin Plax, professor of political science at Case Western Reserve University; Thomas Molnar, a specialist in philosophy and European intellectual history; Thomas Auxter, professor of philosophy at the University of Florida; Gabriel Gersh, professor of English, Hunter College; Clyde Wilson, professor of history, University of South Carolina.